Auto Liability and Safety Requirements

Anytime you are behind the wheel, it's important to be covered by insurance. If you are found at fault in an accident, you are responsible for the cost of any damage you've caused to others. That's what auto liability insurance is for, and it's why states have minimum requirements for all drivers. Auto liability insurance helps cover the cost of bodily injuries and property damage for the other party, up to your covered limit, minus your deductible.

NYU requires production vehicles to carry a minimum of $500,000 in liability insurance.

If you rent a vehicle, liability insurance is available for purchase from the vendor. If you are using a personal vehicle, ask the owner for their auto insurance declaration page.
